Claudia Miro Biography

Over the course of a distinguished 25-year career, Claudia Miro has garnered extensive experience within the public sector, spanning roles across state, county, and municipal government. With a robust background in public policy and communications, she has adeptly served as a spokesperson to four governmental entities, deftly navigating legislative sessions in Tallahassee and providing invaluable leadership as chief of staff to a former City of Miami Commissioner, as well as within the executive team of a former Florida Attorney General.

This multifaceted experience has endowed Ms. Miro with a profound understanding of public policy dynamics, allowing her to seamlessly transition into her current role as Director of Business Development & Government Affairs at Freebee, an innovative micro transportation enterprise committed to fostering community connectivity and catalyzing economic growth, Ms. Miro is entrusted with spearheading the expansion of Freebee's market presence across the State of Florida and beyond.

Benefiting from her rich understanding of public policy and transportation dynamics, Ms. Miro has cultivated a sterling professional reputation and cultivated enduring relationships within the public sector, earning commendation from numerous policymakers throughout Florida.

Beyond her professional endeavors, Ms. Miro remains deeply engaged in community enrichment initiatives, contributing her expertise as a member of esteemed boards such as the Miami Herald Community Advisory Board, the City of Coral Gables Planning & Zoning Board, and the Miami-Dade County Interfaith Board. Additionally, she is an active participant in philanthropic endeavors, notably serving as a testimonial speaker for United Way Miami and a member of Women United.

Recognized for her exemplary contributions to the transportation sector, Ms. Miro was honored by the National Conference of Minority Transportation Officials (COMTO) during Hispanic Heritage Month in 2023. Her exceptional achievements further garnered acclaim as a finalist for the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce 2023 BWOTY Award (Bad Ass Woman of the Year) in the Transportation and Aviation division, and inclusion in the esteemed roster of Top 50 Women Leaders of Miami for 2023.

A sought-after industry luminary, Ms. Miro frequently lends her expertise as a panelist and keynote speaker at conferences, offering insights into transportation technology and smart micro transit solutions.

Ms. Miro's academic credentials include a master's degree and bachelor's degree in public administration from Barry University. Residing in Coral Gables, she takes great pride in her role as a devoted mother to her son Lucas and in providing a loving home for their four cherished rescue pets.
